COASTAL CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ISLAND OF RUEGEN 93pp and map; [REDACTED]

25X1X

This report, consisting of a photostated document and map, gives a detailed description of the following coastal sectors of the Island of Ruegen: Dranske-Cape Arkona; Cape Arkona-Glowe/Koenigshoern; Koenigshoern-Stabbenhoern; Stabbenhoern-Sassnitz; Sassnitz-Granitzer Ort; Granitzer Ort-Goehren; Goehren-Lobbe; and Lobbe-Thiessow. In general, the information includes: elevation and structure of coastal bluffs; width and composition of beaches; possibilities of ascending coastal bluffs in order to gain access to the interior; presence of field paths; location of nearest highway and railroad line; and terrain features of the hinterland. In addition, there is a brief description of weather conditions throughout the year on the Island of Ruegen.

The map of the Ruegen Island area which accompanies the document is on a scale of 1:100,000, and was published in 1944 by the German Reich Office for Land Surveying in Berlin.
